60 George III – Chapter 7

An Act to enable the Justices of the Supreme Court to enlarge the time of the sittings of the said Court, when the same shall be expedient. Passed the 29th of March 1820.

Whereas it frequently happens that the established duration of the terms of the Supreme Court is not sufficient for the requisite trial of cause; and the hearing of matters depending in the said Court—

I. Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Governor, Council, and Assembly, That from and after the passing of this Act, it shall and may be lawful for the Justices of the said Court, if they shall deem the same to be expedient, to adjourn the sittings of the said Court to the week next succeeding the said terms respectively, and that all causes and matters heard and determined on any day during the week next succeeding the said terms respectively, pursuant to such adjournment, shall have the same and the like force and effect, to all intents and purposes, as if such causes and matters had been heard and determined at any time during the said terms respectively, and that all parties concerned shall take due notice of such adjournments, from time to time respectively, and govern themselves accordingly: subject always to such rules and regulations as may by the Justices of the said Court, from time to time in that behalf, be made and established. Provided that no trials of any issues by Jury shall be had at any such adjourned sittings; any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

II. Provided also and be it further enacted, That the days of the teste and return of all Writs in the said Court, shall be and remain the same as heretofore established; any thing in this Act to the contrary thereof in anywise notwithstanding.
